Our Philosophy

CBG believes that attractive long term investment returns can be achieved through a disciplined investment process, using bottom-up fundamental analysis and with a focus on high quality companies.

We undertake a detailed investigative process and seek to understand the unique drivers of value for each company, then to identify opportunities where that intrinsic value is not reflected in the current stock price.

Investments are considered based on a time horizon of at least two to three years, enabling us to benefit from the shorter term focus of most institutional investors.

We look for a number of attributes that consistently apply to securities which produce attractive returns. In particular, a strong management team that is delivering on a robust strategy and generating value for shareholders; solid free cash flow; a strong competitive position; a supportive industry structure; strong balance sheet and attractive earnings or cash flow multiples relative to earnings risks and growth prospects.

CBG believes this approach to investing works because the market regularly displays pricing inefficiencies. Causes of market mispricing include: a focus on shorter investment timeframes by most institutional investors; crowding in the largest stocks by market capitalisation, with other stocks being less well researched, and emotional and cognitive biases of investors. For example, aversion to short term losses may lead investors to avoid stocks which have experienced short term volatility or to sell positions too early to avoid potentially giving up gains.

CBG undertakes a rigorous approach to stock selection and portfolio management. Ronni Chalmers, the Chief Investment Officer, is supported by an investment team with research responsibilities assigned for specific industry sectors.

Investment decisions are driven by bottom-up stock analysis, overlaid with macro and industry level considerations.

Idea generation is a result of the continuous monitoring of stocks within each industry sector and screening the investment universe based on quantitative and qualitative attributes.

We seek to understand the unique drivers of value for each company. For example, an attractive industry structure or competitive advantage. This enables us to identify opportunities that would be missed by purely quantitative screening.

We also believe that it is important to understand the market assumptions underlying current stock prices and to make an independent assessment of fair value given our longer investment horizon relative to most investors.

CBG draws on a range of sources of information to assist this process, including regular meetings with company management and attendance at company presentations; analysis of company announcements; historical and forecast financial metrics for stocks in the investment universe; industry and other statistical data; news media and broker research.

When a stock is considered for investment, a detailed report is prepared including the analyst's financial forecasts, price target and investment recommendation. Integral to this process is meetings with senior management of the subject company.

Investment recommendations are presented to and discussed by the investment team, with the Chief Investment Officer making final portfolio decisions.

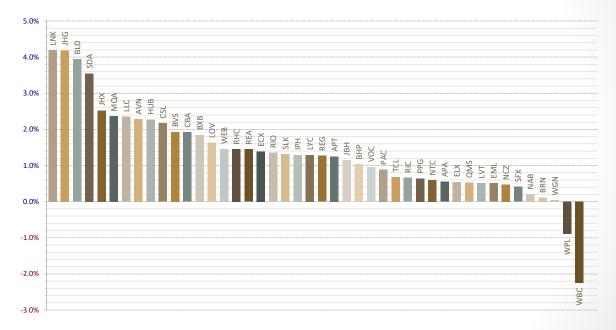

Stocks included in the Portfolio are then subject to ongoing monitoring, with the team producing timely internal research reports and maintaining regular contact with the company.

If a stock reaches its price target or records a material share price decline, this triggers a review of the position.

Risk is managed through the rigorous selection and monitoring process and avoiding or minimising exposure to companies and sectors that do not meet our criteria around valuation and quality. Stock and sector portfolio weights are managed based on our analysis of the risk/return characteristics of the stock or sector and how that affects portfolio risk. We also use portfolio analytics tools to regularly monitor historical and forecast portfolio risk/return metrics.

Janus Henderson - JHG

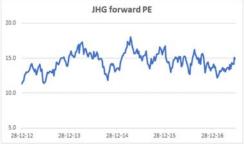

- JHG is a globally diversified fund manager with US$320bn in AUM.
- Merger to deliver at least US$110m in cost synergies, equivalent to 20% of group PBT.
- Management track record on delivery with Gartmore and New Star acquisitions.
- Inflows coming off cyclical low which had been capitalised into valuation.
- As recently as 2015, HGG achieved inflows equivalent to 11% of opening AUM (2016 -4%).
- Forward PE has now returned to 4 year average at 14.9x
- However, upside to consensus EPS growth for 2 years to FY19, which is less than accretion from cost synergies.
- CBG valuation using DCF to capture merger synergies.

Janus Henderson (JHG)

- Held since 2009. A market correction in early 2016 impacted price. This was compounded by Brexit, which caused both a devaluation in the GBP and reduced flows to UK and European equities.
- Thesis unchanged, focus now on merger. Stock has recovered from "cheap" levels, with upside over the next 2-3 years from the Janus merger.
- Merger to deliver cost synergies equivalent to at least 20% of group PBT.
- Business footprints also highly complementary. Henderson provides UK, European product and distribution. Janus provides US product and distribution in addition to Japan distribution.

Macquarie Atlas - MQA

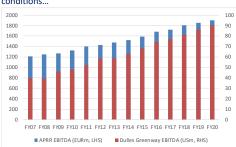

Restructuring story with benefits from refinancing tailwinds

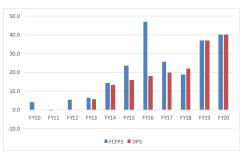

- Global toll road owner. Key assets in the portfolio include a 20% stake in APRR, a 2,000km toll road network in France and 100% stake in the Dulles Greenway, a toll road in Virginia USA.
- We believe toll roads are an attractive asset class given their long term, reliable and growing cashflows. Assets are separately financed with minimal risk to holding company.
- Market under appreciated the significant potential upside in both performing and underperforming assets.
- Cashflows to step up over coming periods as the Greenway exits lock-up.
 Value generating catalysts remain.
- At 10.9x EBITDA we still see value in MQA and are comfortable with our overweight position. Future drivers of performance include: ongoing traffic and revenue growth, ongoing refinancing benefits and corporate activity.
- Given the strong price performance recently however, we have gradually taken profits.
- Recently announced intention to internalise management agreement

Lend Lease - LLC

Strong cash generation forecast

- LLC is a leading development, construction and investment management business, operating in 9 countries.
- Positively leveraged to global economic activity.
- Strong operational track record 14% ROE, last major construction losses in 2004.
- To be net cash in 18 months (5% gearing currently).
- Australian apartment earnings have peaked (20% of group), but significant cash flows coming in, with work in progress >90% pre-sold.
- Group earnings to benefit from growth in construction activity and increased capital employed offshore. Capital allocated internationally to increase from 23% of total to 30-50%.
- Valuation remains attractive vs history and global peers, on a 12x forward PE vs 17x for global listed construction companies.
- CBG sum of the parts PE based valuation.

LLC CBG Investment thesis

Lend Lease (LLC)

- Held since January 2012.
- Well managed company, with established presence in Australia, UK, US and Asia.
- Stock was sold off in 2HCY2015 on concerns around apartment supply.
- Thesis that LLC has invested ahead of the cycle, pre-sold revenue for work in progress, with buyers having paid 10% deposits and sitting on capital gains – significant defaults or losses for LLC unlikely.
- Continued low default rates have reduced market perception of this risk, while construction earnings have improved and LLC is beginning to reinvest capital offshore.

Current Investment Thoughts

- The first time in many years we have synchronized global growth.
- Global bond yields have bottomed in the last year.
- Currently, inflation rates in most economies remains either below or slightly above the low end of central bank targets.
- Fund has increased its holding in BHP & RIO which should enjoy capital management in 2018.
- Fund has taken profits in its infrastructure and utilities holdings and re-invested in stocks that will benefit from a continued stronger US economy like Boral, James Hardie, CSL and Brambles.
